2 TOWNSHIPS ADOPT JUNIOR HIGH SYSTEMS

Washington and Perry-twp Boards of Education Take Action This Week

FOLLOW MONROE - TP

Bennett Renamed Superintendent at Monroe

Boards of education of Washington and Perry-twps have voted to adopt the junior high school system to go into effect when school begins next September. These two schools follow Monroe-twp's move, which was recommended by Dr. B. O. Skinner, state director of education, and D. L. Buchanan, county superintendent of schools.

STEP FORWARD

The boards of education feel this is a step forward in their efforts to provide boys and girls the best educational possibilities. This type of school is not a new thing in the state nor will it be new to all the teachers of Washington-twp. C. D. Bennett, superintendent, organized the Wayne-twp. school in Fayette-co. on this plan in the 1922 and it is still being used there.

The plan will make the high schools larger and will tend to lessen the break between the eighth and ninth grade. The teaching load will be better divided, also the plan has shown.

TEACHERS HIRED

The Washington board also announces the following instructors employed for next year:

C. D. Bennett, superintendent; Mrs. Charlotte Gerner, high school principal; Wendell Boyer, Manuel training and science; Mrs. Ruth Marion Macklin, English and music; Loren Straight, junior high mathematics and science; Miss Nellie Kuhn, fifth and sixth grades; Miss Ruth DeLong, third and fourth grades, and Miss Edith Spangler, first and second grades.

The slogan of Washington's teachers is "Good Schools May, By Cooperation of Teachers, Parents and the Board of Education, be Made Better, Depression or No Depression."

The Perry-twp board of education hired the following grade teachers at its meeting Tuesday evening:

Mary Skinner, first and second; Geneva Campbell, third and fourth; Hazel Chilcote, fifth and sixth.

JOLIET, Ill., May 4.—Two conflicting ransom notes today confused authorities hunting for Gustav Miller, 22, kidnaped son of a wealthy Joliet merchant.

A telegram and letters from Detroit sought to bring the youth's father Mack Miller to that city to bargain with the abductors but another set of instructions demanding $20,000 indicated Young Miller was held in Chicago.

The second letter, postmarked Chicago, advised the father to rent an airplane and fly toward Chicago until he reached Maywood, according to Police Nicholas Fernandez. Then he was to circle at an altitude of five hundred feet over a highway.

Graves Of Vets Marked Tuesday

Pickaway Plains chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, Tuesday afternoon, placed markers on the graves of 10 soldiers of the Revolution buried in Pickaway-co. The county commissioners paid half the cost of the markers and provided two men who set the markers in cement.

The ceremony started at the High-st cemetery at 1 p. m. with the flag salute and the singing of a verse of America. Mrs. George F. Hunsicker read George Washington's prayer. The Regent, Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, in a short talk said that one of the purposes of the organization was to perpetuate the memory of the spirit of the men and women who achieved America independence by the acquisition and protection of historical spots and the erection of monuments.

Mrs. Orion King, chairman of the committee in charge of marking the graves, introduced Dr. Howard Harman of Chillicothe, descendant of George Harman whose grave was marked. Dr. Harman gave a sketch of the life and revolutionary record of his ancestor.

At Forest cemetery, with the same ceremony, the grave of William Sudduth was marked, his descendant, Mrs. Nickerson, reading his history; then the grave of Harleig Sage was marked with Mrs. Ed. Wright, a descendant, reading the history. Following this the grave of Alexander Foreman was marked with Mrs. Anna Foreman Williams of Columbus reading his historical sketch.

The chapter then visited Westfall cemetery where the grave of Fergus Moore was marked, and Mrs. James Swearingen, descendant, read his history.

At Reber Hill cemetery the grave of Josh Miller was marked. He was an ancestor of Mrs. R. R. Bailes who read his history. The graves of two other revolutionary soldiers in Reber Hill cemetery, Charles Durvea and Charles Gibson, were marked. Mrs. H. D. Jackson, a descendant, read a historical sketch of Daniel Ludwig whose grave in Hiller-Ludwig cemetery was marked.

At the Bagg family cemetery near Logan Elm, the grave of John Bagg was marked and Mrs. John Bagg of this city read his history.

The same ceremony was observed at all the graves and was very impressive.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, in appreciation of the cooperation of the commission, will make the work possible. The work was done by the Daughters of the American Revolution, in appreciation of the cooperation of the commission, will make the work possible.

ROOSEVELT AND SMITH FAR BEHIND

New York Governor Refuses to Admit Defeat as Returns Come In

SMITH CONCEDES

Democratic Outlook Changed by Tuesday Vote

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—John N. Garner of Texas, speaker of the House of Representatives, apparently has won the California Democratic presidential primary by a surprising plurality.

In returns today from three fourths of the state's precincts he was leading Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York by more than 34,000 votes.

Alfred E. Smith was running third in the contest, approximately 13,000 votes behind Roosevelt.

LEADS BY 34,000

Latest figures from 7,625 precincts out of 10,271 for the state gave:

Garner 163,969;
Roosevelt 129,328;
Smith 115,875.

On the Republican ballot, President Hoover, unopposed, secured a total "confidence vote" of 82%.

The prohibition ticket, headed by H. Clay Needham, polled a negligible vote.

Garner's showing exceeded even the expectations of his managers, who had predicted he would win by "not less than 25,000."

Roosevelt managers, however, refused to concede defeat, claiming the final return from northern California would save the situation for him.

Garner swept southern California while Smith and Roosevelt split the Democratic vote in northern California.

William Gibbs McAdoo heads the 44 Democratic delegates pledged to Garner.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Speaker John N. Garner's apparent victory in the California primary considerably changes the Democratic presidential outlook.

NOT FAVORITE SON

With the acquisition of California's 44 delegates, the Texas' candidacy is automatically lifted out of the favorite son class and it now appears—unless the complete returns in California show the situation—that he will go to the Chicago convention as the second or third strongest candidate in opposition to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The California result was bitterly disappointing to the Roosevelt forces. They had been apparently confident of carrying the state—so much so, in fact, that they have been saying privately that "after California" a serious effort would be made to persuade "minor candidates" to withdraw in the interest of party harmony. The California returns stopped that talk.

MOTHER STRANGLES HER TWO CHILDREN

YORK, Pa., May 4.—Mrs. Agnes Murr, 39, strangled her two young children to death here today and then made a futile attempt to commit suicide.

The victims were Gerald Murr, Jr., three years, and Robert, 15 months. The mother used strangle to strangle the youngsters and then tried to hang herself with a piece of wire. She was taken down, however, and was expected to recover.

WHITE'S DAUGHTER VISITS NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 4.—Miss Mary White, daughter and official hostess of the Columbus executive mansion of Governor George White, Ohio, was in New York today for a few days' vacation.

"I'd rather dance or play tennis than keep house," she said. "That is a housewife's life for father. It is different. I'd do anything for him."

LANCASTER'S DIARY SCANNED BY POLICE

MIAMI, Fla., May 4.—The diary of Captain W. N. Lancaster, a writer charged with the murder of Haden Clarke, young writer, which authorities pored over today, revealed a passionate love for Miss J. M. Keith-Miller, famous Australian aviatrix.

Clarke was also infatuated with the woman flyer and was to have married her, authorities said. Lancaster's diary may play an important part in the murder trial. It was written during Lancaster's trip to the west coast just before he returned here, a day before Clarke was found dead in the house where the trio in the love triangle were living.

The fly leaf of the diary contains a key to names, showing the "Chubbie" he frequently mentions is Miss Keith-Miller, and "Russell" is J. E. Russell, now under indictment in Key West on a charge of smuggling aliens.

EXCERPTS CITED

Following are excerpts from the diary:

March 31, Nogales, Ariz.—No news from Chubbie. The little devil, I should not think of her so much. She doesn't deserve it. Hell!

"April 1, Los Angeles—Would give anything for news of her."

"April 2, Los Angeles—Russell shows the two of Mrs. Russell's letters. One says: 'Chubbie and Clarke came around tonight. I really think now that Clarke has gained Chubbie's affections and they lost them.' The other letter said: 'Was around at Chubbie's tonight. She and Clarke got all ginned up together.'"

"Don't tell Bill (Lancaster) but I believe she is well satisfied. I was going to leave Russell here, but he told me he might get some money for return trip, so decided not to. Mental agony! Hell!!"

April 3, Los Angeles—Wired Chubbie every cent I could raise. It leaves me flat, but God may provide. How to get out of the hotel is a problem. Why no news from Chubbie? I have been trying to telephone Chubbie. No reply. Why? Ill with nervous worry?"

"April 5, Nogales, Ariz.—Letters from Chubbie. Hard to analyze them. Much disturbed. Ill with worry. Chubbie, darling, what is it all about?"

"April 7, Tucson—Impatience for departure brought on a bit of worry for Chubbie. She must need money and I have none. Hell!

"April 9, Tucson—Wired Chubbie. This reply worries me. It only could mean something more, such as 'don't worry, I still love you.' Thank goodness for the one thing I have made a firm resolution to end this mental strain—have it out. Then work for our common good. I adore her and want to see her happy. If only she did not drink while I was away I would feel O. K. She has two personalities. I love both personalities. Chubbie, angel, it won't be long before I see you and hold you."

"April 10, Tucson—Awaken with misgivings. Suffer the tortures of damned! Telephoned Chubbie. Wish I had not. She did not make it easier for me. Am going to Miami whatever happens to find out first hand all about everything. I love you, Chubbie. I have done my best—but failed. Want to talk over with you, my sweet. It has been five years since we met."

WRITER FOUND DEAD

Captain Lancaster went from Tucson to St. Louis, where he remained a day or two and then flew to Miami, arriving here on April 13.

Clarke was found dead on April 14, having been shot with a gun that Lancaster was said to have bought in St. Louis.

Meanwhile, Miss Keith-Miller protested her faith in Lancaster, as secret witnesses were called before the Dade-co grand jury by State's Attorney Vernon Hawthorne, seeking an indictment of first-degree murder against Lancaster.

The first witness called was L. V. Haring, handwriting expert, whose examination of "suicide" notes purported to have been left by Clarke revealed that they had been forged.

Mrs. Keith-Miller also testified for an hour.

Lancaster admitted he had written the notes, officials said, although insisting that Clarke committed suicide.

Capt. Lancaster, in his jail cell, in which he hung two photographs of the aviatrix with whom he was associated since their London-Australia flight some years ago, said if indicted he would like to act as his own attorney.

He felt certain, he said, he could convince a jury of his innocence.

DIED TO SAVE CROWD

Two veteran aviators of the World War died in flames of their wrecked plane Saturday to save the lives of spectators below. The pilots, Lieut. Charles Fargo (left) and Lieut. Henry Sandusky, were flying over Chicago's South Side when engine trouble developed. Although both men wore parachutes and had an opportunity to jump they decided against deserting the plane at a point where it would have crashed into the crowd below. They guided the plane past the crowd but crashed into a building and were burned to death in the explosion and fire which followed. Upper photo shows wreckage of plane.

In a thrilling track and field duel, Chillicothe's team by virtue of crashing through to victories in the broad jump and the mile relay, the last two events of the day, defeated Circleville 65 1-2 to 57 1-2 Tuesday afternoon at Chillicothe.

The meet was close from start to finish with the local squad taking an early lead.

Chances Bright for Derby

"Universe," owned by Dr. T. M. Cassidy, has quite a following of turf fans who think well of his chances in the 1932 Kentucky Derby. "Universe," one of the biggest 3-year-olds, will be piloted by Jockey Linus (Pony) McAtee in the Blue Grass classic. He was quoted in the Winter books at thirty to one.

Chillicothe, third. Height, 5 ft. 3 inches.

880 yard run: Smith, Chillicothe, first; Myers, Chillicothe, second; Mills, Circleville, third. Time, 2 minutes and 14 1/2 seconds.

Western Wildcat Faces Zbyszvo

COLUMBUS, — Columbus which has known some outstanding wrestling attractions in recent years, is to be the center of attraction for mat critics the county over when Thursday night, May 5, Everett Marshall and Wladek Zbyszko, meet in a finish catch-as-catch-can duel at the Columbus Auditorium.

The focusing of interest on Columbus and this match in particular is the natural result of the whirlwind campaign toward titular honors which Marshall has been conducting in recent months.

LIKE LOCKINVAR
Coming out of the West four months ago after a brilliant 12 months on the Pacific Coast where he defeated Gus Sonnenberg, Ed Lewis, De Glane and chased Jim London from pillar to post in a vain effort to force the Greek into a championship match, Marshall has been continuing his spectacular career in this section of the country.

He has defeated all comers with an ease that has set the mat world talking. His only failure to win the past year was when he met John Pesek in a two hour match in Columbus two months ago and a second time when he met Pesek in Kansas City. Both bouts went two hours and at the conclusion of each battle the referee could do little else but call the battle even.

CARDS, ATHLETICS SHOW FORM AS WIERD GAMES ARE PLAYED

Dizzy Dean Blanks Cincinnati Reds While George Earnshaw Turns In Four Hit Contest; Brooklyn Scores Eight Runs In Ninth Against Giants.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics, on the eve of the first interseasonal games, finally are beginning to revert to their pen-and-ink winning form of 1931.

The Cardinals chalked up their fourth win in five starts yesterday as Dizzy Dean blanked Cincinnati, 9 to 0. Dizzy walked six men but managed to settle down when the plate was threatened. It was his first victory of the year.

The two-game "winning streak" of the A's has been made at the expense of punch-groggy Red Sox and as yet cannot be taken as conclusive evidence of reform. The A's downed the Sox 6 to 1 yesterday behind the hurling of Big George Earnshaw. The game was fairly close until the ninth inning when Al Simmons poled his fourth home run of the season with two men on base. Boston got only four hits.

GAMES EXCITING
While the Cards and A's played like champions, there were some weird ball games around the major league loop. Brooklyn scored eight runs in the ninth to gain a surprise victory over the New York Giants, 11 to 7, shelling four New York pitchers in the final inning. Johnny Freeman, who collected five hits, got two of them, a homer and a single, during the ninth-inning spree.

Equally weird was the Washington-Yankee encounter. Although Burke, Weaver and Growler issued sixteen bases on balls between them, the Yanks lost to the Nats for the third time in a row 5 to 4. Old Sam Rice got a pinch-hit double in the eighth that sent in two Washington runs, just enough to win.

The Senators increased their hold on first place in the American league, as Cleveland's nine-game winning streak was snapped when the Indians lost to the Browns, 11 to 8. "Spinach" Melillo of the Browns got four hits.

HURST CONNECTS
Don Hurst of the Phillies also got four hits against the Braves, but his mates couldn't help him much and lost to the league leaders, 9 to 4. The Phils knocked Socks Seibold out of the box but had no luck with old Tom Zachary, his successor.

Chicago stayed right on the heels of the Braves by outslugging Pittsburgh, 8 to 6. The Cubs put on a five-run uprising in the seventh, second baseman, clipped four hits.

Detroit and the White Sox rained out.

Voters of Pickaway-Co.

Next Tuesday you will nominate candidates, some of whom will run your county offices the next two years. I hope to be the Democratic nominee for Recorder.

As I have previously said through these columns, I am not making a personal canvass of any large part of the county for two reasons. Because I was unemployed most of the past winter, I am unable to stand the expense of such a campaign. Because I have recently secured work on a job that takes all of my time, I could not take the time to canvass the county, even if I were able to stand the traveling expense. That is why I am taking this method of reminding you that I am a candidate.

I mention these personal facts, not as an appeal for sympathy, but as an explanation of why I am not out working in the usual way. Sympathy is a commendable feeling in its place; but I do not believe its place is among the qualifications of an officeholder. The first consideration there should be the ability of the candidate to fill the office.

I am a graduate of High School and Teachers' Normal School. I also took special work at Ohio Northern University and completed two courses in Bookkeeping and Higher Accountancy. To the theories gained in those years of study, I have added the following experiences:

Service in the United States Navy during the World War;
School teacher in Jackson and Walnut Townships;
Time clerk for the National Carbon Company, Cleveland;
Salesman for the Hoover Suction Sweeper Company;
Dealer in tires, gasoline and oil;
Secretary-Treasurer of the Midwest Farm Equipment Company, Circleville.

I feel that my education and experience have fitted me to perform the duties of Recorder, in the same efficient manner as they are being performed now.

Our present Recorder is completing her third term of an administration that is outstanding for its courteous, efficient service. If I should be allowed the opportunity to perform those duties, I am confident of my ability to maintain the high standards now in effect.

ORVILLE BUMGARDNER

Are you a well-informed person?

Every day this newspaper is filled with news. And our experience is that the news which interests you most is the news which affects you most. When one of your friends has participated in a minor accident, you are more interested in that than in a major accident in another city.

Advertising, too, is news of the first importance. It affects you. It is intimate, local news addressed to you. It deals with your comforts, your pleasure and your business. It saves you time by telling you where the merchandise is. It saves you money by announcing fair prices. It is the guide to efficient spending. When you fail to read the advertisements, you do not keep up with news that is most important to you. You miss many opportunities.

The best-informed people are those who read the advertisements regularly. In fact, in this modern age, when each day brings forth new things which directly affect you, you cannot ignore the advertisements in your daily newspaper and still be well-informed!

MANY CITIES TO SEEK AID

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—Millions of dollars in relief for Ohio's unemployed today was expected to be made immediately available after the supreme court yesterday upheld the constitutionality of the new emergency tax on public utilities.

With the last obstacle to Governor George White's $30,000,000 relief program definitely removed, the state relief commission planned to take action Friday on applications of various cities and counties to issue bonds in anticipation of the collection of the increased tax.

MANY APPLY—Among the applications pending before the commission are requests from Hamilton and Summit counties which are said to be desperately in need of charity funds to assist the jobless.

The supreme court agreed unanimously that the law, which was adopted at a special session of the legislature, is constitutional. Under the act approximately $12,000,000 can be raised for relief in Ohio providing the relief commission finds that such relief is needed.

A suit to test the validity of the bill was instituted soon after the legislature adjourned. The act was defended by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman.

The relief commission, in a short meeting yesterday, approved diversion of local gasoline and automobile license tax funds for relief as follows: Cuyahoga county, $250,000; New Philadelphia, $13,061; Lancaster and Dover, $5,000 each; Springfield, $10,000; East Palestine, $5,000; Niles, $8,000.

MYSTERY OF BABY'S DEATH IS UNSOLVED

ZANESVILLE, May 4.—Mystery in the poisoning of 16-month-old Raymond Ethell increased today after a postmortem showed conclusively that the baby died of an acid which burned the interior and exterior of its mouth.

Carlos Ethell and his wife, parents of the baby, reiterated that there was no poison of any kind in their home, and that they could think of no way the child could have obtained any.

Raymond died at a local hospital yesterday after becoming suddenly ill on Monday. He was rushed to a hospital after his cries and shrieks attracted the attention of his mother. He became unexpectedly ill while at play, Mrs. Ethell said.

U. S. COAST GUARDS GET RUM RUNNERS

BOSTON, May 4.—Coast guard machine guns ended a thrilling chase by crippling the twin engine steam yacht Onaway of Boston off Gloucester today.

The crew of two was arrested and 127 cases of alleged liquor seized.

As the yacht zigzagged in an effort to escape the machine gun bullets 175 cases of liquor were dumped overboard according to guard officials.

Meanwhile the fishing vessel, Virginia and Joan was in collision with coast guard patrol boat No. 156 in the harbor, as the federal boat was inbound from chasing a rumrunner off Cape Hand. The crew of the coast guard boat was shaken up and the bow of the craft damaged. The fishing boat after being repaired proceeded on her trip.

CHURCH SEEKS OFFICIAL AID

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 4.—The Methodist Episcopal church took its message for more and better prohibition directly to the President, Senate, House of Representatives, Governors of states and all likely presidential candidates today.

By unanimous vote the 850 delegates, here for the quadrennial conference, decided to send copies of the Episcopal address of their bishops to the highest office of the land, as suggested by the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals.

Tactically acknowledging the widespread influence of "the largest Protestant denomination in America," as the Methodist church is called, the delegates welcomed the opportunity to call attention to the stand of the bishops against any plan for modification or repeal, against the wet spirit of the metropolitan press, against the efforts of rich men to escape taxation by new taxes on beer.

By their action they made the expression of Bishop William F. Jackson of Boston, who read the address, the expression of the entire church. They even suspended the conference rules to take the vote.

The conference action followed lively discussion in the committee room, where George Mecklenberg of Minneapolis presided.

Getting New Business

The progressive business firm finds that it needs to be constantly making new friends and creating a new circle of customers.
It just depends on satisfying those who have previously brought its goods, it is likely to see its trade diminished. Population changes move rapidly now than formerly, and if a firm has a certain list of customers this year it can expect, as the result of all the changes that naturally occur, that a considerable proportion of those customers will not be on the list in a year or two.

Also people are changeable in their habits, and unless a very energetic effort is made to hold old customers by advertising, a lot of them will go elsewhere, attracted by the various inducements that are offered them.

People are not much inclined, as they were once, to go to one place and stay there. They are quick to get the idea, if some firm seems to be hustling a little harder than its competitors to please the people, and no feeling of loyalty is apt to hold them, if they think they can do better by going elsewhere for something they want.

By an active campaign of advertising, a firm can keep making new business friends, to make up for those who drift elsewhere. It does not take elaborate persuasion to win such new customers in these times.

People are ready to go to any place of business where the spirit of enterprise and hustle seems to prevail. A concern that makes it a regular practice to advertise, even if it does take no great amount of space, will have a constant stream of inquirers entering its doors, who will more than make up for old customers who go elsewhere.

Equal Trade

AMBASSADORS do occasionally do something for their country, besides getting it into war, involving it in dangerous alliances and wearing knee breeches. For example Ambassador Edge has just obtained from the French government a concession decidedly beneficial to American industry and commerce.

A treaty negotiated by the American ambassador to Paris removes an onerous system of double taxation which has been bearing down upon French subsidiaries of American concerns. French plants of foreign corporations have been paying, in addition to a corporation tax, a levy on dividends paid by the subsidiary to the parent company and, in some cases, a second levy on dividends of the parent company assumed to have originated in profits made by the French subsidiary.

Now that Ambassador Edge has won this fight he can devote more time and effort to the job of persuading France that her import taxes are discriminatory against the United States without being beneficial to France. In this campaign he has the support of former Premier Caillaux and is opposed by Premier Tardieu.

The United States and its exporters have no quarrel with France, because she would protest her home industry, capital and labor but they strenuously and rightly insist that they be not discriminated against. French goods should have priority in France but after that all foreign traders should have an equal chance in her markets.

Another Edge victory will help business here.

No Cause for Worry

THERE is always more or less worry connected with money.
Those of us who do not have it worry about getting it, and those of us who have it are often put to a great deal of worry in hanging out it. In addition to this no little worry is brought on by the desire to make a penny grow where only a penny grew before. It seems as though poets and philosophers have conspired to bring money into disrepute, so anxious are they to tell us that the more possession of it is a great burden.

In more recent times there has come to us the warning that money carries germs. Germs express even want so far as to demonstrate that a bank clerk's occupation was particularly hazardous because he handles so much money. But now this dread has been dispelled. After exhaustive investigation on the subject of money as germ carriers two Illinois University experts assure us that the danger has been greatly exaggerated. It seems that the metals from which coins are made act as destroyers of bacteria.

This relieves us of the worry connected with the handling of money. The next thing for some of us to do is to tell us how we can be relieved of our worries in getting to get hold of it.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

SYNOPSIS

Mary Kennedy had youth and beauty and an intense fear of poverty. Almost the last words of her dying mother warned her against marriage to a poor man. Mary refuses the offer of a home with her married sister, Katherine. She rents a small room. While sitting in the park making plans for a job, an elderly man of distinguished appearance engages her in conversation. He is Buck Landers, well known sports promoter and race horse owner. He offers Mary a job as secretary. Mary calls on Landers relative to the position. They have dinner together and Mary is thrilled by the surrounding splendor. Landers offers Mary a life of luxury.

CHAPTER V

In her narrow room with its white iron bed looking into a court yard, she thought of the ornate and expensive roof garden she had just left. The evening gleamed brightly in retrospect. Actually it had been her first taste of the great city's magnificence, of its iridescent atmosphere. When she stretched her slender young body out on the rented bed she was not sleepy; it was pleasant to lie there and give herself up to dreams and possibilities. Life as Buck Landers could give it thrilled her with glittering visions. Beautiful clothes, marvelous limousines, travel, yachts, the theatres. In his world of wealth her imagination could riot freely. She had remembered something she had read in a book once, about moonlit castles on the Rhine.

"But I'm not thinking about him at all—only his money," she told herself with a little jolt of honesty. "It would be nice to be his daughter. I can't imagine myself married to him... his wife..."

Morning brought the crass necessity of the work-a-day world. Mr. Nelson, the manager of the Metropolitan Hotel, received his new secretary with a marked cordiality.

"We're glad to have you with us, Miss Kennedy. Mr. Landers said some complimentary things about you. I think you're going to make good."

Nelson belonged to the Faistaff school of architecture. His girth was enormous, his face and head were round, and he wore a perpetual and professional smile. He had small bluish eyes, cunning and calculating. To a welcomed guest he could be the soul of hospitality, but to a cringing underling he was a Roman galley master. He could take a hotel, any hotel, and squeeze incredible profit out of it. His appetite for work was insatiable; apparently he never slept. It was a point of honor with him to know as many guests as possible by name, with the result there was never a room vacant in the hotel.

Mary's work was in part stenographic. In reality she was something of an assistant manager. Nelson was constantly giving lists of articles to be ordered from the wholesale houses—foods, linens, sundries. She conferred daily with the housekeeper about chambermaids and laundry. Every department of the hotel made daily reports which she checked with the bookkeeper to forestall any leaks.

"We're using twenty-five per cent more soap this year than last," Nelson said to her. "I want you to make a check-up with the storekeeper and find out what's becoming of it."

It developed that no more soap was used than formerly. It was only that the tradesman charged more and billed the hotel boldly for the increase. Long and earnestly Nelson talked into the telephone, and when he had finished the dealer had come back to his original price and agreed to a rebate on the excess charges. Five hundred dollars was thus returned to the Metropolitan.

"Never let 'em get away with anything," Nelson told Mary. "That's the whole business!"

The patrons of the Metropolitan were mainly of the sporting class. On the mezzanine floor adjoining Nelson's office there were several other offices occupied by boxing managers, hockey promoters and dubious gentlemen who wore striped shirts and diamond rings. Among the guests was Aubrey Hollingsworth, the movie actor. Mary had often seen him in the pictures. In recent years his popularity was belie," he murmured. "The screen always needs new faces. I should be the last one to give false encouragement to aspirants but may I ask, have you ever thought of going to Hollywood?"

"No, I haven't."

"I shouldn't dare make any definite promises, but if you ever come to the West Coast, be sure to ring me up. I won't be going back for ten days or so. Perhaps, some evening here, we may talk it over—I mean, how would you like to come up here some evening and have a little talk with me about the movies, heart to heart, so to speak?"

Before Mary could answer him,

"Won't you come up soon and have a talk on the movies, heart to heart so to speak?"

giving to wane but he was still more or less famous. She recalled recent newspaper writings that his wife was in Paris divorcing him. By an odd chance Mary, after a few days, was privileged to meet the celebrity.

"Hollingsworth wants to dictate a few letters, and our public stenographer is all tied up," Nelson said to her. "With guests like Hollingsworth we try to give every service—they bring a lot of publicity to the house. Would you mind going up to his office a half hour or so for courtesy of the management and that sort of thing—know what I mean?"

Taking her notebook and pencil, a little nervously, Mary presented herself for service in Hollingsworth's suite. The great man received her in a scarlet and gold lounging robe, and a Byronic shirt. He was scented faintly with lemon verbena, which may have been from the soap he used. His face was vigorously featured and his body trim. At close range he looked older than she expected; there were slight pouches under his eyes and fine lines about his mouth.

"So sorry to put you out," he murmured in a rich throaty voice. "I usually bring my staff East with me, but this time I just packed off incognito, so to speak. Just make yourself comfortable anywhere about the room, my dear."

He gave her four or five letters to people in Los Angeles concerning small business matters. When he had finished Mary rose to go but he raised a graceful hand and detained her.

"It just occurred to me, my child, that you have a remarkable pro-his telephone rang. "Oh, Juditha darling! Just a minute please..." He put his hand over the mouth piece, and turned to Mary. "I think that will be all for today," he muttered, his eyes taking in Mary from head to feet. "You won't forget to ring me up, will you?"

Mary smiled but did not promise. She met other people whose names appeared quite often in the newspapers; Moe Levy, a hatchet-faced man who was the manager of Dick Leeds, the "London Lad" Levy brought his protegee into Nelson's office one day for a chat. Leeds was a fresh-faced young Cockney with broad shoulders and one thickened ear. He had come to America only recently and in the next few days was to make his bid for the heavyweight championship in an introductory bout at the Madison Square Garden. Nelson seemed to have a close friendship with the manager and an admiring curiosity toward the fighter. All three of them chatted in pugilistic jargon that was not plain to Mary. It seemed they all agreed the "London Lad" was going to rock somebody called the Bohunk to sleep early in the proposed fight.

"Did you know that Mr. Landers owns Dick Leeds?" Nelson asked Mary after the other two had left. "Levy is only a dummy manager. Mr. Landers holds an option on the 'London Lad's' contract. You're mighty lucky to have Mr. Landers as a friend. He's the real fox on all those sporting rackets. And the money he's got in the bank—oh, baby! A nice man to do business with, too. Hard boiled but a quick clicker."

Wrong Food or Clothing May Give You the Hives

Researches seem to prove that various persons are sensitive to different foods or materials that, if used, will cause this distressing skin eruption

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health New York City

MANY of my readers have requested information about "urticaria," which is the medical name for "hives." Many call it "nettle-rash."

In this condition there is a rash, or an eruption of the skin, that consists of numerous small red spots. These enlarge and may become as big as a 50-cent piece. Fortunately the rash usually lasts only for a few hours, but in severe cases it may be prolonged for a few days. The swellings disappear, but often reappear at definite times of the day. Any part of the skin may be affected. It is found in adults, but is more common in childhood than in later life.

For many years the cause of hives was not recognized. Now it is believed to be due to a sensitivity to certain substances. These substances are usually present in certain foods, but may be found in clothes, homes and materials used in various occupations.

The prevention and cure of the disease is easy when the cause is discovered and removed. Most sufferers from urticaria know that they are sensitive to certain foods. They have learned by unfortunate experiences. When they eat these foods they do not suffer from hives. It is only when they are careless about eating that the rash appears. I have known many persons who were fond of sea food but unfortunately whenever they took of this tempting food they "broke out" in a rash and suffered for many hours.

Relieving Inflammation.
Sensitivity to clothes as a cause of hives is illustrated by the following story. A young woman suffered from hives and her attacks always occurred on Sundays. Though every effort was made to determine to what food she was sensitive, no relief was found. It was finally noted that on Sundays she wore a certain silk blouse and that her sensitivity to silk was the cause of the hives. When the silk garment was discarded her hives were cured.

In acute cases where the itching and inflammation is very severe, relief can be obtained by applying a solution of hypophosphite of soda. Dissolve a tablespoonful in half a glass of water and apply to the inflamed skin. Where the rash involves the whole body, place a half pound of hypophosphite in a tub half full of water and bathe in that. These baths may be taken twice a day for a duration of twenty minutes.

Where relief cannot be obtained and the hives are persistent, it is wise to consult a doctor. In a very severe case it may be necessary to give a hypodermic injection of adrenalin. This can only be done under the supervision of a physician.

The Daily Horoscope

Wednesday, May 4, 1932

The indications for today are not altogether favorable until late afternoon. The early morning suggests caution in financial matters, and a tendency to extravagance. Dealers in luxury items may find this profitable, little thought being given to the matter of price.

Around noon time is most satisfactory for those connected with the world of entertainment. Not a time to purchase new clothes. It would be well to keep the emotions in hand and avoid giving offense.

The afternoon, particularly around four o'clock shows adverse conditions for real estate business. Not a time to sign leases or transfer property. Setbacks may be looked for by farmers and miners and all those who live by means of manual labor.

After five o'clock there is promise of benefit to the theatrical world. Evening performances should win much applause. Almost any kind of amusement enterprise should report good receipts tonight. Soft drink parlors and drug stores may look for an increase of sales.

Students of psychic subjects may altogether favorable until late afternoon. The early morning suggests caution in financial matters, and a tendency to extravagance. Dealers in luxury items may find this profitable, little thought being given to the matter of price.

Children whose birthday this is, are inclined to be witty and playful especially when they are in the mood for it. They act according to how they feel at the time. They are charmed by music and are best influenced when harmony prevails. Parents should avoid their going to parties and doing things in a rush.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The widely read and warmly discussed Rupert Hughes' novel, "No One Man," which ran as a serial in magazine form, reaches the Cliftona Theatre screen Saturday as a Paramount offering.

It is a new kind of story, done in the modern manner, relating the loves of a typical daughter of the '20s, who endeavors to solve the matrimonial problem. Settings, chiefly those of New York City and Palm Beach, are lavish.

This is Miss Carole's first production in several months, following her marriage to William Powell.

The management of the Cliftona announces a special attraction for Mother's Day Sunday May 8, in addition to the regular feature program entitled "Music Box."

REMEMBER! REAL CHAMPIONS DON'T PLAY FOR KEEPS.

The first thing any marble player has to learn when he begins practicing for the marble tournament is that every game is "for fair."

There's no "playing for keeps" in the tournament.

Some of the older fellows tell me that before the time of marble tournament, all games were "for keeps."

At the end of every game, all marbles are returned to the player who lost them.

One of the first rules in marble, and I think it's a good one, is:

When we were playing around town on the beach at Ocean City, New Jersey, last June, all games were "for fair," whether we were playing games of the tournament or not.

I can't think any real champion would want to play any other way.

Tomorrow I am going to tell you about the lag. I think it is one of the most important things in tournament play.

THOOP 107
The troop met May 2 for a full hour and a half of real scouting and to proceed with plans for earning this summer.

Several locations are being considered for camp site but as yet no definite place has been decided on.

All scouts of troop 107 or any who are interested in becoming scouts come to meeting next Monday at 7:00 p. m. at Evangelical Church.

THOOP 107
The weekly meeting of Boy Scout Troop 107 was called to order Friday night at the gym of the St. Philip's Parish House by the Senior Patrol Leader, John Robinson. Fourteen scouts were present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and dues collected.

The scoutmaster, Ludwig Haacker, then gave instructions as to what to bring to the Camporee held at Zwicker's woods Saturday, April 30. The Scoutmaster then read off the patrol grading plan the scribe had planned and it was started at the meeting.

The scouts were then drilled in marching and obeying commands. After the drill, each patrol got together in a corner and discussed the Camporee and what to bring. After the scouts had reassembled, Gavle Wolf closed the meeting by leading in the Scout Oath.

THOOP 158
The regular meeting was held at 7:30 p. m. Friday evening. When the patrol had checked their attendance and collected dues they were called to attention. When they had been inspected they played a game called Crows and Cranes. It was enjoyed very much. They next played a game called Are You There, Brother? Harry Butler asked a first aid question and the first that held up his hand and answered it correctly got to challenge some other boy to the game. When this game was over they gathered in a circle and heard Harry Butler tell of his experiences with razor back hogs. He is going to tell about snakes next time. After a few announcements the boys were dismissed by Mr. Young leading in the Scout benediction. A short officers' meeting was held afterwards.

Alice in New Wonderland At Eighty

Inspiration of Lewis Carroll's Fantasy Comes to Honor Memory of Childhood Friend Who Wrote Immortal Classic.

MRS. ALICE HARGREAVES

PARTS OF ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT

The original Alice of Lewis Carroll's immortal fantasy entered a new Wonderland when the liner Berengaria docked at New York on her last trip from England. But this time there was no White Rabbit, Mad Hatter or March Hare. Instead, Alice, who is Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, looked upon a Wonderland of towering skyscrapers and slender spires that seem to point to still another land that lies above the clouds. Mrs. Hargreaves, now 80 years old, was the little girl for whom Lewis Carroll created the land of beautiful nonsense seventy years ago. Carroll told the story of Wonderland to Alice and her two sisters. But though the sisters were content to hear the story from the lips of its creator, little Alice Liddell, fearful lest she forget a detail, insisted upon the dreamy professor of mathematics writing the story in a book for her. This Carroll did and that same manuscript, penned to amuse a child was later sold for $75,000. Mrs. Hargreaves is here to attend the 100th anniversary celebrations of the birth of Lewis Carroll at Columbia University. She is accompanied by her only surviving son, Captain Caryl Hargreaves, of the Scots Guards, and her sister Miss Rhoda Liddell.

ward over the flat land of the mid-west, Capone gazed sadly through the pullman car window. Once he turned to Victor Morici to whose wrist he was manacled and bitterly remarked:

"A bum rap—just a bum rap. Morici was enroute to Tampa, Fla. for face, automobile theft and transportation charges.

A few hours after the dismal journey began, the manacles, binding Capone to Morici, were removed and the gangster was locked in a drawing room for the night. Under the watchful eyes of guards, Capone yelled, but was unable to sleep for some time.

Under circumstances, disclosed in confidence only to newspapermen the gang chieftain was taken out of his Cook-co jail cell last night and rushed to the Dearborn street station. Marshal H. C. W. Laubenhimer supervised the transfer.

CROWD PRESENT

Despite the secrecy adopted by officials, as a means of thwarting any possible attempt to free the prisoner, a large throng gathered hastily on the station platform when the rumor spread that Capone was about to begin his trip to prison.

Nine police cars, containing officers, newspapermen, and newspaper and motion picture photographers, accompanied Capone from the county jail to the station. The flares of the photographers illuminated the platform momentarily as the gangster was hurried into his car.

There were cries of "That's Al Capone," as the ever-growing crowd pressed forward to catch a glimpse of the departing gangster.

The train left at 11:30 p. m. Not until after it pulled out of the station did Capone and the general public know that his destination was Atlanta, not Leavenworth.

Plans were suddenly changed when Marshal Laubenhimer received from Washington late yesterday the chimp message. "Take Capone to Atlanta. Cancel Leavenworth plans."
